THE COLLEGE

ADMISSIONS BULLETIN

The Philadelphia College of the Performing Arts is dedicated to excellence in the training of professional musicians, dancers, music educators, and dance educators. The PCPA curriculum combines the performance emphasis of a traditional conservatory approach, stressing individualized training, practice, and discipline, with a liberal arts education.

Founded in 1870 as the Philadelphia Musical Academy, the Philadelphia College of the Performing Arts has long been regarded as one of America's foremost contributors of outstanding musicians. Many of the college's early graduates and faculty became members and founders of the Philadelphia Orchestra when it was formed in 1900. To this day, the Philadelphia Orchestra continues to play a significant role in the life at PCPA, with many of its members serving on the college faculty. Located in Philadelphia's historic Shubert Building, PCPA is adjacent to the Academy of Music, home of the world famous orchestra.

In 1976, the college, still offering only a music program, officially changed its name to the PHILADELPHIA COLLEGE OF THE PERFORMING ARTS. This signified a new direction for the school, and in essence announced the college's intention to expand its curriculum to include all three of the performing arts—MUSIC, DANCE, and THEATRE.

In 1977, the college incorporated the School of Dance into its curriculum, thus adding new dimensions to the college program. The high standards of training and professionalism established by the School of Music, are an integral part of the dance program.

The college is planning for the introduction of a School of Theatre and a School of Creative Studies in the 1980's, offering degrees in such areas as musical theatre, theatre arts, choreography, stage direction, and more.

The Philadelphia College of the Performing Arts, long recognized as a leader and pioneer, is now Pennsylvania's first and only independent college dedicated exclusively to the performing arts. The college, one of the first of its kind in the United States, is viewed as a school which is serving present and future needs. The college's philosophy is founded on the principle that performing artists, whatever their discipline, have a common bond, and that they must reach out to each other for inspiration and growth. Today, many follow interdisciplinary careers, requiring familiarity with all the performing arts.

The College is proud of its distinguished faculty, most of whom are widely recognized performing artists. This highly qualified and professional faculty, coupled with the college's philosophy that superior individualized instruction is of the utmost importance, has brought about a well-deserved reputation for excellence in professional training. This reputation is strengthened by the impressive and ever-growing list of past students at PCPA. Included are such artists as pianists Andre Watts, Eugene List and the late Willie Kapell, composer Vincent Persichetti, soprano Florence Quivar, dancers Judith Jamison and Rodney Griffith, jazz artist Stanley Clark, and others.

The Philadelphia College of the Performing Arts, a fully accredited independent institution, is a member of a unique consortium, known as AICM.

The college shares membership with the Juilliard School, San Francisco Conservatory, New England Conservatory, Cleveland Institute of Music, Mannes School, Manhattan School of Music, and Peabody Conservatory.

The Philadelphia College of the Performing Arts offers the student the unique opportunity to learn and grow creatively as a person and as a performing artist. The coeducational student body is composed of students from across the United States and many foreign countries. All students receive personal attention, professional individualized training, and are regarded as unique individuals possessing abilities and talents which must be guided, respected, and allowed to grow to full potential. Our goal is to assist each student to realize the full attainment of his true potential.

Indeed, the Philadelphia College of the Performing Arts is a place where one can 'study with a professional' to 'become a professional', while at the same time earning a fully accredited and recognized college degree.

The College looks forward to the future, and invites young artists to consider becoming a part of this exciting experience.

THE CAMPUS

The Philadelphia College of the Performing Arts is located in Center City Philadelphia, a location highly advantageous for the young performing artist. Its two buildings are in the center of an area which serves as the focal point of the city's major performing arts activities. Within one block of the college, one will find the permanent homes of The Philadelphia Orchestra, The Pennsylvania Ballet, The Philadelphia Civic Ballet, The Philadelphia College of Art, The Performing Arts School, and Philadelphia International Records. Indeed, concentrated within this small area, one finds more professional music, dance and theatre represented than in any other part of the city.

The home of the Philadelphia College of the Performing Arts is the newly renovated seven-story Shubert Building at 250 South Broad Street. Philadelphia's historic Shubert Theatre, owned and operated by the College, is housed on the ground floor of the building, and is today the major performance hall for PCPA students and faculty. At the same time, it is the permanent home of the Pennsylvania Ballet, and it is frequently a major stop for pre-Broadway shows and national touring companies. The opera/concert theatre has a seating capacity of 1800 persons, and is considered to be one of Philadelphia's finest.

The remainder of the Shubert Building houses a large and comprehensive music and dance library, a full complement of modern classrooms, chamber music studios, student and faculty lounges, and administrative offices. In addition, there is an electronic music and recording studio, class piano laboratory, and audio-visual equipment. Practice rooms are carpeted, have full-length mirrors, and individual heat controls; many are equipped with grand pianos. Also available is a two-manual Challis Harpsichord, an 8-Track Moog Synthesizer, two harps, complete sets of percussion instruments, and more than one-hundred orchestral instruments which may be used on a loan basis for rehearsals and class instruction.

The Annex Building, located at 313 South Broad Street, houses the dance, jazz, and opera programs of the Philadelphia College of the Performing Arts. This building, newly renovated in 1978, has four spacious dance studios and several smaller practice rooms. Studios are equipped with sturdy barres, mirrors, and resilient wood floors. Dressing rooms are available with individual lockers and showers. Several rooms are available as rehearsal space for large ensembles and other functions. The building also houses faculty offices and the Performing Arts School, PCPA's own private performing arts school for grades 1-12.

Theatre 313 is located in the Annex, and serves students and faculty as yet another performance hall for student and faculty productions. With a seating capacity of approximately 200, this theatre provides an intimate setting for small productions. Not only does Theatre 313 serve PCPA students and faculty, but it is noted as Philadelphia's newest theatre.

In summary, PCPA is very proud to offer to its students two modern and well-equipped buildings, located in the hub of Philadelphia's cultural and performing arts activity. In addition, students are fortunate to have available two of Philadelphia's finest theatres, both owned and operated by the college. Indeed, the facilities of the college, coupled with its location, foster the professional and artistic development of each PCPA student.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC

The School of Music of the Philadelphia College of the Performing Arts is concerned with the preparation and training of young artists for careers as professional musicians and music educators. Moreover, PCPA is dedicated to the total education of its students. In short, the college's goal is to produce individuals who possess the means to function in all aspects of the world around them, as musicians and as productive citizens.

The traditional conservatory approach, that which stresses the importance of individualized training, is a strong influence in the curriculum of the School of Music. The college also places great emphasis on performance.

Each full-time degree student in the School of Music receives a one-hour private lesson each week. A distinguished faculty is available.

All music majors at the Philadelphia College of the Performing Arts receive intensive training in theory and musicianship, with the option of selecting a number of music electives. The PCPA theory program is a unique approach to theoretical studies, insuring each student a solid foundation in basic skills, analysis, literature and music history. Musicianship (ear-training) studies foster an aural awareness of pitch and rhythmic materials. Fundamentals of music theory are correlated with aural materials so that both intellectual and aural skills develop simultaneously and reinforce each other. Each student has the opportunity to elect a number of advanced music courses and courses of special interest. A sample of such courses includes Orchestration, Conducting, Bach, Improvisation, Electronic Composition, Synthesizer Techniques, and Music Criticism.

The importance of individualized training is reinforced by the College's on-going Master Class Series. Recent artists who have conducted Master Classes include pianists Andre Watts and Philippe Entremont, and composers George Crumb and Robert Suderberg.

From time to time, guest conductors are invited to rehearse the orchestra. Recently, Riccardo Muti and Klaus Tennstedt have been guests.

Coupled with the importance of individualized instruction, the college has a strong performance orientation. As a result, performance and involvement in performing groups is an important part of the curriculum of the School of Music. The college makes available a variety of ensembles and performance opportunities.

From time to time, students have the privilege to participate in very special performances. For example, the PCPA Chorus performs periodically with the Philadelphia Orchestra. The Troubadour Program affords students the opportunity to represent the college and to perform throughout the Delaware Valley. Each spring, the college sponsors a celebration of the performing arts—IN CONCERT. This culmination of each year's performance efforts results in a long list of concerts, recitals, and special programs stressing all aspects of music and dance.

In summary, the School of Music, since 1870, has been preparing and training young artists for professional careers as musicians and music educators. PCPA's well-rounded music training program is geared to assist in the fullest development of each student's potential.

CURRICULUM

The PCPA Curriculum stresses individualized training with a performance emphasis and includes required and elective courses in the Humanities. Each semester, students in the B.M. and the B.M.E. programs take one Humanities course, with the remainder being in music. The Humanities courses, whenever possible, are taught with regard to how they relate to the performing arts. The college curriculum does not call for any courses in mathematics or science. Students in the Associate Degree and Artist Diploma Degree Programs are excluded from the Humanities requirement.

DEGREE AND DIPLOMA PROGRAMS

Bachelor of Music (BM)

The four-year Bachelor of Music Program is designed for those students who wish to prepare for professional careers in performance, composition, or who desire a thorough background in anticipation of graduate study, studio teaching, or further work in specialized fields.

Double Degree: Bachelor of Music/Bachelor of Music Education (BM/BME)

The five-year Double Degree Program is designed to prepare students for careers in school music teaching. The College takes the position that teachers of music must be of the same general level of musical accomplishment as students graduating with a BM degree. For this reason, students in the Double Degree meet all of the requirements for the BM degree in addition to completing a block of courses in professional education. Successful completion of the Double Degree Program results in qualification for Instructional I Certification by the Department of Education of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Artist Diploma (AD)

The Artist Diploma is a four-year program devised for the unusually gifted student capable of intensified training toward a concert performance career. Primary emphasis is upon development of performance ability in solo, chamber and large ensemble settings. Admission to the Artist Diploma Program puts great emphasis upon extraordinary performance ability. Majors in composition and theory are excluded from the program.

Associate Degree

The Associate Degree is a two-year program designed for the student who wishes to concentrate exclusively on musical studies without general studies requirements.

PERFORMANCE OPPORTUNITIES

The College maintains the following ensembles and performance opportunities:

- Symphony Orchestra
- PCPA Chorus
- Symphonic Wind Ensemble
- Jazz Ensemble I
- Jazz Ensemble II
- Guitar Ensemble
- Piano Accompanying
- String Chamber Ensembles
- Wind Chamber Ensembles
- Percussion Ensembles
- Brass Chamber Ensembles
- New Music Group
- Choral-Orchestral Concerts
- Opera Productions
- Studio Concerts
- Student Composition Concerts
- The Troubadour Program

MUSIC EDUCATION

The Music Education Division of PCPA provides an opportunity for outstanding musical performers and composers to prepare for successful teaching careers as well.

One-third of the college's music majors are enrolled in the unique five-year double degree program. These students are granted two degrees: the Bachelor of Music in either performance or composition and the Bachelor of Music Education. The degree program in Music Education is fully accredited by the Pennsylvania Department of Education, and persons receiving certification in Pennsylvania can, by virtue of reciprocal arrangements, easily obtain licensure in other states. Further, courses taken during the additional two semesters required for the double degree at PCPA are fully applicable to permanent teacher certification in the state without the need for additional post-collegiate instruction. In this sense, PCPA offers the most effective program for those who recognize the desirability of teaching and the attractiveness of an applied career.

In addition to the requirements for the Bachelor of Music degree, double degree candidates complete courses in instrumental and vocal methods, functional piano, psychology, social foundations of education, conducting, lab teaching, professional methods, and student teaching. Methods classes begin in the sophomore year, following the traditional freshman year of core requirements.

The Music Education Division offers excellent physical facilities, up-to-date curriculum laboratory, closely-supervised lab school and student-teaching experiences, a curriculum emphasizing practical as well as theoretical approaches to the basics of accepted educational techniques, a faculty widely-experienced in public school and private teaching, and a policy of close individual career and college counseling.

STUDIO/JAZZ EMPHASIS

The Studio/Jazz Emphasis Program is designed as an elective within the traditional Bachelor of Music Degree. The program is concentrated into the final two years of a four-year bachelor's degree, and is designed to prepare students for a career in all aspects of Jazz and Commercial Music. Course offerings include: Jazz Theory, Jazz History, Recording Techniques, along with extensive participation in small and large jazz ensembles. Students also receive major instrumental instruction, traditional theory, literature, musicianship, and a full course of study in the Humanities.

ADMISSIONS

Admission to the College's degree and diploma programs is determined by a review of the applicant's secondary school record, SAT or ACT scores, and audition results. The admissions program seeks to determine the applicant's technical and intuitive grasp of his major performance medium and of music fundamentals as a whole; his ability to function in a college environment; and his overall commitment to music as a career and as an art.

Secondary School Requirements

Applicants must complete requirements for the High School Diploma, GED, or the equivalent prior to actual enrollment in the College, with the exception of those accepted under the Early Admissions Program. Proof of completion of the secondary school requirements must be submitted to the Office of Admissions before enrollment.

Application Procedures

All Applicants must submit:

1. A completed Application Form and a check or money order to cover the required application fee.
2. Certified transcripts from all secondary schools or colleges attended.
3. SAT or ACT Test results.

Materials such as letters of recommendation are welcomed, but not mandatory unless specifically requested. Applicants may wish to submit a resume with the application, but again this is not mandatory.

Personal interviews are encouraged. This allows the college and the applicant the opportunity to get acquainted, discuss the curriculum, and see the college and its facilities first-hand. However, because of distance and other factors, the interview is only recommended. It is not mandatory.

Because college enrollment quotas may be filled early, applications should be filed as soon in the year as possible, but preferably no later than May 1st for September admission, or November 15th for January admission.

Guest Conductor Riccardo Muti

Taped auditions are not acceptable for those applying to the Graduate School.

PLACEMENT TESTING PROGRAM

Following admission to the college, a series of placement tests is administered. These tests are given to allow a realistic assessment of the applicant's strengths and weaknesses and are not factors affecting admission to the college.

The following tests are part of the Placement Testing Program:

1. The Ear Training Placement Exam deals with the ability to match pitches, identify intervals and triads, and to sight-sing simple melodies and rhythms.
2. The Theory Placement Exam reviews the applicant's conversance with key signatures, major and minor scales, intervals, triads, and basic musical terminology.
3. The English Composition Exam requires a brief written essay on a topic to be supplied at the time of testing.
4. The Basic Piano Placement Exam (for non-keyboard majors only) reviews the applicant's ability (if any) to play the piano.

Placement Exam results are used as a general index of musical accomplishment, and as a specific mechanism for class assignments. The tests allow us to place students in class sections with students of similar ability.

SCHOOL OF DANCE

Barbara Sandonato, faculty

The School of Dance of the Philadelphia College of the Performing Arts is dedicated to the training of young artists for careers as professional dancers and dance educators. The school is founded on the belief that today's professional dancers must have extensive knowledge and experience in their chosen field as well as skills in related disciplines. With this in mind, the school offers a broad-based curriculum which prepares students to enter the professional world of dance with confidence.

Daily technique classes in ballet and modern dance are basic to all courses of study. Additional course offerings include improvisation, repertory, and partnering, as well as electives such as jazz dance, spanish dance, and tap dance. In courses such as dance history and score reconstruction, students gain an historical perspective of different dance traditions. Music, voice, and drama classes provide dancers with the necessary links to the allied performing arts. Practical experience in aspects of production is an essential part of the program. Various courses in the humanities and social sciences are also offered, with special emphasis given to their relation to the arts. The curriculum is both extensive and flexible.

Performance is an essential and enjoyable part of the curriculum and serves to integrate classroom work with stage experience. Students are encouraged to organize their own studio workshops and concerts in addition to participating in the regularly scheduled performances. Each spring, the year-long efforts culminate in a celebration of the arts—IN CONCERT.

The large faculty of professional artists brings with it a wide range of experience and tradition.

Small classes and individualized instruction provide a creative and exciting atmosphere where students are challenged and guided.

Former students have achieved success in many different companies throughout the world. They have been performers with such renowned companies as Alvin Ailey, Bejart, Joffrey, José Limon, and Pearl Lang, and teachers in such institutions as the North Carolina School of the Arts. For these students, the high level of technical and artistic training acquired at the School of Dance contributed to their subsequent success.

The demands of today's professional dance world require that dancers be familiar with more than one style of dance. For this reason, a core program has been created for the first two years of study. The PCPA curriculum includes intensive training in dance complemented by performance opportunities and required elective courses in the humanities.

DEGREE PROGRAMS

Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA)

The Bachelor of Fine Arts program is designed for those students who desire to prepare for professional performing careers in dance. The BFA program is normally completed in four years of full-time study, and carries a total graduation requirement of 132-133 credits, depending on the major field of study. Twenty-four of these credits are taken in liberal arts studies and thirteen are taken in music studies. Graduation requirements for all dance majors include the successful completion of the performance requirement.

Bachelor of Fine Arts in Dance Education (BFA in Dance Ed.)

This is a five-year program which is specifically designed for those students whose primary intention is to enter the dance profession as a teacher of dance. Although there is currently no Pennsylvania State certification for dance teachers, this program of study does include a semester of supervised classroom teaching in schools and/or private studios. Those students electing this program must meet all of the requirements for the BFA. In addition, they must complete specific courses designed for the professional educator. The total requirement for graduation from this program is 165-166 credits.

Associate Degree

This is a two-year program which is designed specifically for those students who wish to concentrate in dance studies without a liberal arts requirement. The thrust of this program is to give the student concentrated study in the broad spectrum of dance styles, and to develop his/her familiarity, proficiency, and performing ability in these areas. Graduation requirements include the successful completion of the prescribed course of study and the fulfillment of the performance requirement.

PERFORMANCE OPPORTUNITIES

Performance is an important activity for all students at PCPA. Each spring, the year-long performance activities culminate in a celebration of the arts at the Shubert Theatre—IN CONCERT. Students perform a wide range of classical and modern repertory in addition to original works choreographed for them by the faculty.

- The Troubadour Program enables students to perform in schools and institutions throughout the Delaware Valley.
- The school's affiliation with cultural institutions throughout the city provide students with the opportunity to participate in professional productions.
- Throughout the year, students are encouraged to present informal workshops as well as take part in formal productions at Theatre 313.

ADMISSIONS

Admission to the College's degree programs is determined by a review of the applicant's secondary school record, SAT or ACT scores, and audition results. The admissions program seeks to determine the applicant's technical and intuitive grasp of his major performance medium and of dance fundamentals as a whole; his ability to function in a college environment; and his overall commitment to Dance as a career and as an art.

Secondary School Requirements

Applicants must complete requirements for the High School Diploma, GED, or the equivalent, prior to actual enrollment in the College, with the exception of those accepted under the Early Admissions Program. Proof of completion of the secondary school requirements must be submitted to the Office of Admissions before enrollment.

Application Procedures

All applicants must submit:

1. A completed Application Form and a check or money order to cover the required application fee.
2. Certified transcripts from all secondary schools or colleges attended.
3. SAT or ACT Test scores.
4. A one page, type-written resume of previous dance training must be submitted along with the application form. It should include the names of teachers, studios, length of study, and performance experience.

All of the performance opportunities involve students in all facets of production, including lighting, costuming, make-up, and set design. Through this process, the student gains an understanding and appreciation of dance as a performing art.

DANCE EDUCATION

The Dance Education Program offers a five-year program designed specifically for students who wish to become dance instructors.

The College takes the position that teachers of dance must be of the same high level of accomplishment as students graduating from the four-year performance program. For this reason, the course of study during the first four years is the same as that followed by non-education majors. During the fifth year, students are required to student teach in schools and/or studios located in the Delaware Valley area.

The unique blend of courses in this program offers students the opportunity to obtain a strong foundation in dance techniques as well as practical and theoretical training in teaching methods and styles.

AUDITIONS

The dance audition is of major importance in the admission process. Selection is based upon the applicant's current level of technical proficiency and potential for professional development. The audition consists of a one and one half hour Ballet and Modern Dance class at the appropriate level. Applicants must also perform a dance composition which showcases ability and talent. This composition should be limited to five minutes or less and may be the applicant's choreography. Musical accompaniment for this composition must be on a cassette tape.

Audition Dates

Listed below are the audition dates for admission in the 1979-80, 1980-81, and 1981-82 academic years. The applicant should select his first and second choices of audition dates under the academic year in which he expects to enter, and indicate them in the appropriate spaces on the Application for Admission.

VIDEO-TAPED AUDITIONS

If distance makes a personal audition impossible, two letters of recommendation from dance teachers with whom the applicant has studied and a video tape of a short work will be acceptable. If a video tape is impossible, current still photos may be acceptable. Applicants should contact the Admissions Office for further details.

CAMPUS VISITS

Applicants are encouraged to visit the college. An appointment is required in advance in order for a student to attend a day of dance classes. This is an opportunity for the applicant to experience our program. This is not part of the audition process.

FACILITIES

The School of Dance is located in the newly renovated annex building at 313 S. Broad Street. Facilities include four spacious dance studios as well as several smaller practice rooms. These rooms are all appointed with sturdy barres, mirrors, and resilient floors. Dressing rooms are equipped with individual lockers and showers. Theatre 313 provides a small intimate setting for performances, while the college's own Shubert Theatre is used for larger productions.

In addition to the main PCPA Library, students of dance have available to them the Lattimore-Nahumck Dance Collection, one of the largest and most diversified collections devoted to dance in the United States. Books, films, records, and journals are available to students for research studies and coursework.

PLACEMENT TESTING PROGRAM

Following admission to the college, a series of placement tests is administered. These tests are given to allow a realistic assessment of the applicant's strengths and weaknesses and are not considered a determining factor regarding admission to the College.

The following tests are part of the Placement Testing Program:

1. The English Composition Exam requires a brief written essay on a topic to be supplied at the time of testing.
2. The Basic Piano Placement Exam reviews the applicant's ability (if any) to play the piano.

Placement Exams are used as a general index of accomplishment, and as a specific mechanism for class assignments. The tests allow us to place students in class sections with students of similar ability and placement scores.

GRADUATE STUDIES

GRADUATE PROGRAM IN OPERA

The PCPA Graduate Opera Program is a concentrated two-year curriculum designed to prepare the singer or director for a career in opera. It is an intensive and professionally-oriented program.

Operas, opera workshop productions, and recitals are presented throughout the year. All students in the Graduate Opera Program are required to participate in at least one opera production each semester of residence as performers and crew. Preparation of and actual performance in at least two major roles is required of opera singing majors. Those in the opera directing program are required to prepare at least two operas, one of which must culminate in a public performance.

The main objective of these programs is to acquaint students with operatic literature and also to afford them the opportunity to participate in productions. As the result of a unique cooperative venture, students of the PCPA Opera Program may participate in full community productions sponsored by the Philadelphia Musical Theatre, a group of young singers, directors, conductors, and designers.

PCPA's annual production of AMAHL AND THE NIGHT VISITORS, by Gian Carlo Menotti, is noted as a Philadelphia highlight of the holiday season.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Student Life

The focal point of most student life at PCPA is involvement in the various ensembles and productions. In addition, students maintain the Student Government Association, electing student officers annually. The student newspaper, TAKE FIVE, is published monthly and presents a concise review of activities and items of interest at PCPA. An active student chapter of Music Educators National Conference is an integral part of student life for many at PCPA.

The Center City location of the college offers a variety of restaurants, movies, professional touring company productions, all types of shopping, museums, libraries, historical areas of interest, and other forms of entertainment. All of these are within a short walk of the college.

Student Housing

PCPA students reside in apartments, studios, or homes within an easy walking distance of the college. Although the college does not own or operate any residence halls, it maintains a list of available student housing in the area. To obtain a copy of that list, or to discuss any matter pertaining to student housing, contact the Office of Admissions.

The Summer Session

The Philadelphia College of the Performing Arts offers a three-week and a six-week Summer Session. Students may register for courses on a regular credit basis. The course selection for this session is smaller than the regular academic year.

A special summer program is operated in conjunction with the regular summer session and is available on a pre-freshman level, and is intended for pre-college or in-coming college freshmen students. These courses are geared to assist the student in making up for a deficiency in preparatory work, prior to enrollment in September. High school students may also profit from this special summer program.

A list of course offerings may be obtained by contacting the Registrar, and is normally available by May 1st.

ACT 101

The Philadelphia College of the Performing Arts has a special program, ACT 101, available to those who qualify. Made possible through a grant from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania/Office of Equal Opportunity, it is geared to aiding educationally and economically disadvantaged students to the completion of the bachelor or associate degree.

The program provides for specialized tutoring and counseling in select courses in music, dance and the humanities. In addition, a six-week pre-college summer preparatory session is offered. All services offered by ACT 101 are free of charge, and every effort is made to distribute available financial aid in such a way as to arrange adequate aid packages to all ACT 101 students. Those who are selected for participation in the ACT 101 program, must be residents of the State of Pennsylvania, and must demonstrate economic and educational disadvantage within the regulations specified in the program guidelines.

Interested persons are encouraged to contact the Director of Admissions/ACT 101 for detailed information.

Pre-College Training

Our experience suggests that applicants with a minimum of two to five years serious study prior to college are best prepared for the college program.

The college offers pre-college level training in music and dance to persons of all ages, on a non-credit basis. Instruction is available in all instruments, voice, theory, composition, ballet, modern dance, and theatre dance.

PCPA applicants are in no way required to study in one of the school's pre-college divisions, however, many have found it to be excellent preparation prior to college. For additional information simply call the Admissions Office or the Registrar.

Early Admissions Program

The Early Admissions Program is available to those who have completed the sophomore year of high school with at least a B average. This special program allows the student of exceptional talent and ability to simultaneously complete high school and to begin college. Those accepted into the program are not eligible for college graduation until all high school graduation requirements have been completed.

This program is available only to those who have: 1) exceptional talent, ability, and potential in an area of performance, 2) high academic achievement and, 3) the full cooperation and approval of the college, high school and parents of the applicant.

Those interested should arrange for a personal interview with the Director of Admissions.

Part-Time Students

Part-time study is available to degree and non-degree students each semester. Interested persons should contact the Registrar or the Director of Admissions for information regarding registration procedures and instructions.

Transfer Students

Students wishing to transfer to the College from another college should follow the same application procedures as outlined earlier on page 15 (for music majors) or 23 (for dance majors).

Any credits earned at another institution must be evaluated and validated by the PCPA Applied Music, Theoretical Studies, General Studies/ Humanities, Music Education, and/or Dance Divisions before they will be accepted for enrollment. The applicant may be asked to take tests which will aid in evaluation of his skill and knowledge. In no case will credit earned with a grade below "C" be accepted. To be eligible for a degree from the College, students must complete the last 25% of all degree requirements at the College.

Foreign Students

Foreign students who wish to enter the Philadelphia College of the Performing Arts must comply with all the provisions of the Immigration Act and will be admitted ONLY on a full-time basis. Foreign students are required to take the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) or provide other proof of English proficiency. The college requires a TOEFL score of 450 or higher.

The I-20 Form, issued by the college for immigration purposes, will not be forwarded until the applicant has been fully admitted, provided an acceptable TOEFL score or the equivalent, and submitted the required advance tuition deposit.

FINANCIAL AID

The Philadelphia College of the Performing Arts offers financial aid to qualified students to help defray educational expenses. Some of the awards may be offered singly or in various 'package' combinations. PCPA makes every effort to provide maximum financial assistance to students who demonstrate financial need. Available aid falls into three categories.

1. PCPA Institutional Grants and Employment
2. State and Federal Grants, Loans, and Employment Programs
3. Private Grants and Scholarships.

In order to apply for financial aid, incoming students must contact the PCPA Financial Aid Office.

Financial Aid Process

Students are encouraged to file the Financial Aid Application at the same time the Application for Admission is submitted. Further, applicants are required to report the receipt of any scholarship aid from sources outside the College to the Financial Aid Office. PCPA reserves the right to review the financial aid awarded and make appropriate adjustments when necessary.

The Financial Aid Process is as follows:

1. Financial Aid Form (FAF)

All students applying for financial aid must file an FAF. This form should be filed at the same time the application for admission is submitted or as early as possible. However, it should be submitted no later than March 1st. Those applying after that date cannot be assured of consideration. The FAF Form may be obtained from high school guidance offices or the PCPA Financial Aid Office.

2. Copy of Latest Federal Income Tax Return

Students requesting financial aid should send a copy of the IRS 1040 or 1040A to the Financial Aid Office as soon as possible.

3. Basic Educational Opportunity Grant (BEOG)

All students seeking financial aid must apply for a Basic Grant. Application can be made through the FAF.

TUITION DEPOSIT

A tuition deposit is required of all new students when accepted and is credited to the first semester's tuition. It is not refundable after May 1 for students entering in the Fall semester or November 1 for students entering in the Spring semester.

A tuition deposit is also required of all returning students at time of registration for the following semester (December and May). The deposit is credited to the following semester's tuition and is not refundable. Financial aid students who have confirmed grants, scholarships or loans for the full tuition amount will not be subject to this requirement after written approval from the Director of Financial Aid.

PAYMENT OF FEES

Tuition and fees are payable on or before August 1 for the Fall semester and on or before December 1 for the Spring semester. Credit will be allowed for amounts paid at registration.

Students who are delinquent in payment of financial obligations will not be permitted to attend classes or register for the following semester and will be subject to appropriate late payment and late registration fees. No transcript, grade report, degree or diploma will be issued to a student until all tuition, fees, fines, emergency loans and any other assessed charges are paid in full.

COLLEGE REFUND POLICY

The College must engage its faculty and make other financial commitments in advance of each term in accordance with the number of students who expressed their intent to be enrolled. When students withdraw from the College, they create vacancies which cannot be filled and the College's financial commitments must still be honored.

The refund policy at PCPA applies only to a complete withdrawal from all courses for which either a full-time or part-time student is registered.

Any partial withdrawal (i.e. from individual courses) will not result in a partial refund of tuition. A change in tuition assessment status from full-time to part-time will not be permitted after the start of classes.

Any full-time or part-time student who wishes to withdraw from the College and receive a tuition refund must submit a written request to the Registrar. The request will be reviewed by a Refund Committee comprised of the Dean, the Registrar and the Business Manager. If this committee determines that personal or academic reasons justify withdrawal and the request is received in writing by the Registrar before the first day of classes, a 100% refund of tuition paid will be made (not including fees and charges), less retention of $100. tuition deposit.

If such a request is received within the first three weeks of classes and approved, a 60% refund of tuition paid will be made (not including fees and charges).

If such a request is received during the fourth or fifth week of classes and approved, a 30% refund of tuition paid will be made (not including fees and charges).

No refund will be possible after the fifth week of classes.

In computing refunds, the date of withdrawal is the date on which the Registrar receives a written notice from the student, his parents, or his guardian. If notice is received after withdrawal, refunds cannot be made retroactive to the date of leaving.

No refunds will be made for summer session tuition or fees.

No refunds will be made to students dismissed at any time for unsatisfactory academic standing or infraction of regulations.

Refunds for students receiving financial assistance from scholarships, grants, or loans will be returned first to the grantors in accordance with their requirements, and the difference, if any, will be refunded to the student.
